

Dr. Kerri Evans:

It was an exciting moment. I was very proud. I was proud of our school, our teachers, our students, our community. We have such an amazing team here. We are the wolves and we really are a team. This is our pack.

Isaac Bruton:

Working with Dr. Evans is probably one of the highlights of my career. She's the epitome of leadership. She loves her staff. Her staff loves her. We all work as one team. She's very collaborative. She has the best sense of judgment of anybody I've ever met. She cares tremendously for the people in this building and works hard to make sure that everybody's able to succeed.

Speaker 3:

Let me be the first person to congratulate you on being named Johnson County Public Schools Assistant Principal of the Year. Congratulations.

Carson Cataliotti:

I was honored. It was such a high honor to be named Assistant Principal of the Year. I've served for 13 years in Johnson County Public Schools, and this is my fourth year as AP. And to be named Assistant Principal of the Year was just very exciting. Assistant principals are sometimes behind the scenes. So to be recognized was a true, just surprise.

Laura Makey:

Ms. Cataliotti brings so much joy to our school every single day. The passion that she has for students is evident, and you can hear it. It's so funny because they say that you can hear her voice coming down the hallway all the time because she's laughing and it's so evident how passionate she is about kids.

Dr. Kerri Evans:

What I love most about being a principal is I just really like the whole school environment. I like the teaching and the learning piece. I like the students. The staff we have here is amazing. I like the community atmosphere. There's so many things that are different from day to day, but the love of learning and the people that we have here, I really like that to come to work every day and be in that environment.

Carson Cataliotti:

I would tell them hang in there. You do it for the outcome, not for the income. Our kids need us. Our future generations continue to need great educators. And you don't know where your influence begins and ends as an educator.
